CoreLogic® is pleased to provide you with an overview of the 3rd quarter 2015 RCT® updates.

To ensure our clients receive the most current building material and labor costs, CoreLogic researchers continually collect and analyze labor, material and equipment costs (hard costs), including mark-ups. Our research also covers taxes and fringes (soft costs) for reconstruction work performed for the insurance industry in the United States and Canada. Our professionals monitor data from nearly 3,000 unique economies in the United States, and over 100 in Canada.

The process includes monitoring demographics and econometric statistics, government indicators, and localization requirements, including market trends. Other factors in this process include the following:

► Wage rates for more than 85 union and non-union trades
► Over 100,000 line items of construction data
► Productivity rates and crew sizes
► Local cost concerns, such as building code requirements and other localized variables

In addition, we validate cost data by analyzing field inspection records, contractor estimates, phone surveys and partial and full loss claim information.

For more information, or for further explanation, please contact your sales consultant or account manager.

NOTE: The cost information in this bulletin is only intended to give you a general sense of reconstruction cost trends in North America. You should NOT advocate using these factors when adjusting renewal values for specific locations or across your book of business. Please note that the building material and labor cost trends presented in this bulletin are broad averages derived from our research of construction trades and building materials.

U.S. Regional RCT® Cost Changes

CoreLogic independent research and data confirms a pattern of decline for roofing products, reporting a 0.8% decrease for asphalt shingles, and a 0.1% decrease for felt paper over the quarter. Both asphalt shingles and felt paper reflect a 2.3% and a 1.7% decrease annually. A Feb. 10, 2015 Roofing Contractor article by Derrick Teal dated, reports “Roofing Contractor teamed with BNP Media Research and GAF to conduct its annual State of the Industry survey of the roofing market.” The article also reveals “15% of contractors saw no change reflected in the sale of roofing products; while 6% experienced decline throughout 2014”. Decreases are likely to continue through 2015.

The average for U.S. building materials decreased 0.5% for the quarter. For labor, the average wage rate increased 0.4%, based on construction trade contracts that were renewed during the quarter.

CoreLogic monitors a wide variety of construction materials for the residential building industry. A snapshot of some of the most common material elements is listed below:

Canada Regional RCT® Cost Changes

CoreLogic independent research and data confirms issues with supply and demand for drywall, revealing a 4.3% decrease over the year. An Apr. 10, 2015 Industrials Minerals article titled “Canadian Gypsum Mine gets Go-ahead for Expansion” reports that “National Gypsum Ltd has received clearance to expand its mining operations after registering its project for environmental assessment in Milford, Nova Scotia.” Mineral mining, including gypsum, was placed under government restriction early this year while supply and demand have slowed within the market.

The average for Canadian building materials increased 0.2% over the quarter. For labor, the average wage rate revealed little to no change for the quarter, based on construction trade contracts that were renewed during the quarter.

RCT® Software Updates for This Quarter

NOTE: CoreLogic recommends a full program install whenever possible to ensure that you have the latest data and program enhancements.

Cost Data Changes

The third quarter 2015 cost data update reflects reconstruction cost changes in both labor and material. Standardized costs in this release reflect localized, updated costs representing the impact of emerging markets and economic trends on construction costs.
